As originally written it provided for the Central Intelligence Agency's membership to include a commissioned officer of the Army, Navy and Air Forces, representatives of the Department of State and Treasury, a representative of the F.B.I. and such other representatives of agencies and departments of the Government as the Coordinator of Common Defense may recommend and the President approve.

The original provision has been revised and other provisions added. As now written it provides that any commissioned officer of the United States Army, Navy, or Air Forces may be appointed to the office of the Director and that such officer may serve without relinquishing any military rights or privileges. It also makes provision for such officer to receive compensation at the rate of $12,000 per annum while serving as Director. Where it was originally provided that the Coordinator of Common Defense determines the membership of the Central Agency it now provides that the Council of Common Defense with the approval of the President determines the military and civilian personnel to be assigned to the Central Agency from the departments and agencies of the Government.

The outline of duties as originally written in S. 2102 is subject to various interpretations and does not clearly define the responsibilities of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The entire outline has been deleted and a description of the duties and responsibilities of the Central Intelligence Agency has been substituted which follows closely the wording of the Executive Order establishing the Central Intelligence Group.

The bill in its original form provided that the Central Intelligence Agency shall in no way relieve the existing intelligence agencies of their responsibilities for, or authority over, intelligence work under their jurisdiction.

This provision has been revised to provide that intelligence responsibilities of the departments and other agencies will not be affected except as they may be relieved of authorities and responsibilities by the Central Intelligence Agency pursuant to authority provided in subsection (b). The subsection referred to provides that the Central Agency perform such intelligence services of common concern as the Council of Common Defense determines can be more efficiently accomplished by the Agency.

Provides for an executive secretary to be appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, compensation to be at the rate of $10,000 per annum. Also provides that such secretary may, with the approval of the Director of the Central Agency employ the services of part time advisory personnel.

(a) The foregoing has been deleted and no provision substituted therefor. It is believed to be unnecessary and undesirable to have an executive secretary appointed by the President to serve under the Director of Central Intelligence. It is further believed that the executive secretary should be and can be appointed by the Director of Central Intelligence under the provisions of subsection b (Item 2 above). It is also believed that subsection ~~Y~~ will permit employment of such part time advisory personnel as may be deemed necessary.

As originally stated the bill provides that the Central Intelligence Agency make use of the facilities and services of the Departments of State, Treasury, Justice, War, Navy, Air and other Governmental agencies available for intelligence work and authorizes and directs such agencies to make such facilities and services available and to participate to the fullest extent in the objectives of the agencies.
